

Tatiana Brillant

- + COMPLEX NEGOTIATION
- + CRISIS NEGOTIATION

Tatiana Brillant is a former negotiator for the RAID.

For over 13 years she was the sole female officer to hold this position within this elite unit. During her career she carried out numerous critical negotiations and was required to deal with high pressured situations, such as madmen, hostage crisis, kidnapping or very mediatized issues dealing with terrorists.

After many years on the field in one of the most demanding units, she decided to reorient her career to the private sector and joined the Renault-Nissan-Mitsubishi Company as Safety and Security Advisor before moving on to Professional Alerts Ethic&Compliance. In 2019 she published “The Voice of the RAID, negotiating to save lives” at Mareuil editions where she recounts her experience as negotiator in the prestigious police unit – the RAID, and delivers a precious account of these demanding years which required a great deal of self-sacrifice.

In 2021 she joined ADN and works with businesses and organisations as a teacher and lecturer on negotiation and crisis management.
